Dear Mr. Zhu,

I am pleased to invite you to join the Wireless Networks and Multimedia Services Department (RS2M : Réseaux et Services Multimédia Mobiles) at Télécom SudParis from 15th Jan. 2019 to 30th Jun. 2019 as a visiting PhD student to study with professor Djamal Zeghlache in coordination with me, according to the cooperation plan and schedule agreed with your domestic institution and supervisor.

Professor Djamal Zeghlache and I will jointly supervise your research project during your visit. The activities and the scope of our research in the RS2M department are in line with your research project and doctoral work dealing with mobile crowd sensing. Your stay in our department will allow you to reinforce your knowledge in game theory, data mining, statistical analysis, prediction and learning to optimize task allocation of mobile crowd sensing in a broader sense.

I understand that your visit, Mr. Weiping Zhu, to Télécom SudParis will be financially supported by your domestic supervisor, which will cover your visit expenses, including transportation, accommodation, living, health insurance and other expenses. It is the policy of Télécom SudParis not to charge out visiting students any tuition or registration fee. I also confirm that your knowledge of English is definitely sufficient to pursue your education and studies at our Institution, in France and abroad.

We are looking forward to welcoming you and collaborating with you for the advancement of mobile crowd sensing.

Yours sincerely

Prof. Daqing Zhang
